THE RECEIPTS OF THE NATIONAL FAIR-Flore Hall-A Proposition .- It is now evident that the outlay made for the fair of the U. S. Agricultural Society exceeds the receipts by from $3,000 to $5,000. The material on the grounds of the S. W. Agricultural Society will probably be sold, with other materials on the premises, at public auction, for enough to make up the deficit, and the guaranters will not be called on, we presume. No one would be willing to see the beautiful hall sold and taken down; yet the Southwestern Agricultural and Mechanical Association could not prudently buy it, because they

When this hall was projected, it was with a sort of understanding with some of the officers of the Kentucky Horticultural Society, that if a necessity arose, that Society would make some proposition to the S. W. A. Association for a joint ownership and control of the hall. If such an arrangement can be made to the mutual advantage of the Societies, it should be done at once, as the money must be forthcoming without delay. We will thrown out some hints for the consideration of parties interested, which, we fancy, if followed out, would make the hall a permanent source of revenue and interest. Let the Kentucky Horticultural Society receive life members by the payment in cash of $30, for all not already members of the S. W. A. & M. Association, the members of the latter Society paying but $10 for the life membership. Let the books be closed as on as the amount necessary to purchase the hall is obtained-and let the two boards agree upon some plan by which members should be granted privileges equivalent to their payment; say, for iustance, that the hall be placed under the keeping and control of the Kentucky Horticultural Society, which should agree to compose their executive board and other officers of such only as were members of both Societies. Let life members of both Societies have acss to both the grounds and the hall, and to compete for premiums in the hall without extra charge The members of the Association, not members of the Kentucky Horticultural Society, to pay an entrance and admittance fee, in common with other members, to the hall. The members of the Horticultural Society to pay an entrance fee to the grounds, but to have free access to the hall. By this or some similar arrangement the beautiful hall could be made a feature of increasing interest and profit. The galleries might be converted into a museum of such articles as seemed appropriate, and the revenue of both Societies be placed on a permanent basis.

We throw outs these hints now because we know that the guarantors would much prefer a small assessment to seeing the hall removed; but still more willingly, we think, they would contribute voluntarily for a consideration such as this arrangement would confer. We hope this or some other plan will be adopted to save the hall. Who will move in it? If anything is done, it must be done promptly.

DEDICATION OF THE HOUSE OF ISRAEL .- The new Jewish synagogue on Green, between First and Second streets, was dedicated yesterday with the selemn and imposing services incident to the occaslop. A sermon was preached in English from the text: "This is the house of God and the very gate of Heaven." It was able, religious, and patriotic throughut.

The attendance was large, and the interest in the success of the new enterprise all-pervading. It is a good evidence of the prosperity of our Jewish population that their numbers demand two places of worship in our city.

The new synagogue is a handsome building, and yesterday was beautifully decorated with flowers, evergreens, &c.

FAIR .- The first exhibition of the North Kentncky Agricultural and Mechanical Association will be held on the grounds of the Society, near Mayaville, commencing on Tuesday, October 13th, and to continue four days.

Listen to these exquisitely sweet tones from the fairy young minstrel-girl of the South: [For the Louisville Bulletin.]

SING THY SONG, PRETTY BIRD. Sing thy song, pretty hird! sing thy song to the May, But touch not the hud on that delicate spray; Though fair it may be, there's a drop in its core Would silence thy song ever-more-ever-more Fly away, pretty bird, while there's strength in thy win But touch not the lips of that beautiful thing; Turn away, turn away from that had on the vine-'Twere pity to darken an eye bright as thine

Bound away, spotted fawn! is thy home on the hill, Though thy lips are athirst for you beautiful rill; The hubbies that start at thy quick panting breath Will bring thee a thirst that is quenched but In death. Bound away, pretty fawn! sooner trust to the dart The huntsman may aim at thine innocent heart, For lips warm and eager as thine, pretty deer, Have tasted of death in that streamlet so clear.

Come rest, little child! from the flush on thy face, The butterfly led thee a wearisome chase! It sported awhile 'neath the summer's blue sky And left thee, poor child, with a tear in thine eye; Believe me, the spots on that beautiful thing Are hrighter by far when they're viewed on the wing; One brush of thy hand had forever removed A thing made to look at, but not to be loved. GLENADA, LR. SALLIE ADA REEDY.

The New York Commercial Advertiser, in the course of some judicious remarks on the subject of denaturalization, takes occasion to administer a very groundless and unnecess try rebuke to Gen. Walker. Alluding to preceding observations, it says:

We refer, as the reader will suppose, to the case of Gen Walker and his followers, all of whom virtually expatriated themselves—cast aside all the obligations of citizenship and deserted from their country—in the vain hope of acquiring clitzenship and a home in Nicaragua, and failing in that expectation, returned to the United States and claim all the rights of citizenship as though there had been on their part no defection from allegiance. The Individual case of Walker himself is still more remarkable insumed as his repudiation of citizenship in the United States was legally complete.

Certainly he has no thought of re-denationalizing himself. The Advertiser's spleen has colored its usually clear judgment.

> For the honor of the editorial brotherhood and for other reasons, we sincerely hope that Mr. James O. Brayman, assistant editor of the Chicago Democrat, may be able to prove his innocence of the crime, with which he stands charged, of having stolen letters and moncy from the Chicago post-office. At the same time, we wish, for the honor of the editorial brotherhood, that strict justice may be done in this very remarkable case.

A day or two ago, our eye, by the merest chance, lighted upon this paragraph in the Louisville Journal of April 19, 1841:

We were mistaken in supposing that Mr. Braman, assistant editor of the Louisville Advertiser, was the Mr. Braman who perpetrated the notorious torgery at Columbus We, therefore, take pleasure in retracting the insinuation we made yesterday.

We have no recollection now as to the character of the alleged forgery at Columbus, and we certainly do not know what Mr. Braman it was that was charged with the perpetration of it.

THEER IS NO ACCOUNTING FOR TASTE.—The "gentle men" and "leading merchanta" of Buffalo are a remarka bly refined set of chaps. Just listen to the New York Clip-per, in alluding to the miserable and loathsome puglist laukin, who recently engaged in a brutal prize fight:

A few gentlemen, however, some of the leading mor-chants of Buffalo, waited upon Mr. Rankin, at his hotel, and one of them, in a few remarks, presented him, on be-half of himself and others, with a purse of money for the purchase of a gold watch, as a testimonial of their esteem and friendship. Mr. Rankin was deeply touched at this, to him, totally indooked for, but elinearely appreciated gift, from the citizens of Buffalo.

We commend Buffalo to the attention of the missionary ocieties,—Cincinaril Enquirer.

The Enquirer's reflection upon Buffalo is unjust. Buffalo is a highly refined and enlightened city. The New York Clipper is a flash concern, devoted to descriptions of pugilistic encounters and kindred matters. If any present was made to Rankin in Buffalo, it must have been made by a set of low fellows -a class that may of course be found in all cities.

CLOSING OF THE MASONIC FAIR-Auction and Ball this Evening .- Last evening the Masonic Temple was ebony and ivory throughout. The exhibition was devoted exclusively to the benefit of the colored population, who mustered in large numbers, and in finer array than we have seen during the entire fair. The ball room was thronged, and to the music of the cotillon band the colored folks tripped upon the light fantastic toe as gaily and merrily as did ever any of their white brethren.

The committee have determined to close the fair this evening. All the articles remaining on hand will be sold by auction, after which the ball room will be opened.

SAD ACCIDENT .- Some two weeks ago, while the family of Mr. Charles B. Applegate, of New Albany, were on a visit to some friends near Greenville Indiana, Mr. A.'s eldest son, aged about twelve years, fell from a stable loft to a shed, and thence to the ground, about fifteen feet. In falling, or rather jumping, he lit on his feet, the concussion breaking one of his legs above the ankle. The limit was set, and the little patient appeared to be getting along finely, suffering but little, until a few days ago, when an unfavorable change took place and lockjaw set in. He lingered till Wednesday morning, when death released him from his sufferings.

FLOYD COUNTY AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION. This Association will meet at the court house in New Albany on Saturday next, at 2 o'clock, P. M. The preliminaries of the exhibition by the Association have all been arranged, and the list of premiums rules, regulations, &c., will be published in a day or two. The exhibition will be held in the Montgon ery buildings, on State street, between Main and the river, on the 23d and 24th of the present month.

EFFECTS OF THE INDIA NEWS .- Advices by the Arago at New York report that saltpetre at Londor had further advanced five shillings per cwt., in consequence of the India news, which is regarded as unfavorable. Indigo was also higher.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

There were only 3 feet 10 inches water in the canal last evening. The only arrival from below yesterday was the W. A. Eaves, and the Moses Mc-Lellan was the only boat that came down. The Mississippi is also very low and falling fast. There is now a fair prospect for a harvest for the small craft, which have thus far this season been rather unprolitable investments to their owners. We see that several are being brushed up for business, among them Capt. Tom. White's famous Wm. Knox.

We understand that the steamer Northerner has gone to St. Louis to be docked and refitted. The N. has done good service to the traveling public and made a profitable season for her owners.

The Alvin Adams was at Evansville vesterday. She is expected up early this morning, and advertised to return to St. Louis to-day.

The E. H. Fairchild .- This elegant steamer has postponed her departure till 10 o'clock this morning. She is taking very little freight, which will insure her going out without detention, The Fairchild has splendid accommodations and is ably officered.

The U. S. mail steamer T. C. Twichell will leave Cairo for New Orleans to-morrow.

Passengers by taking the Jeffersonville cars tonorrow morning will reach Cairo in time for the Twichell.

The good steamer Statesman is the regular packet for Henderson to-day.

The Time, a very light-draught boat, is rapidly ompleting her cargo, and is advertised to leave for the Tennessee river this evering.

The Superior is the mailboat for Cincinnati to-day. Our friend, Capt. Carris, will leave with his neat new steamer Sunflower next week. She is lying the foot of fourth street.

As we announced yesterday, Capt. Baldwin's new Missouri river packet got aground in the bend on the falls evening before last. She was in charge of Falls Pilot David Dryden. A large force was set at work yesterday to get her afloat, which it was thought wou'd prove successful.

The John Tompkins grounded on Portland bar on Wednesday night and was still there last evening.

NICARAGUA .- A letter dated Aspinwall, and published in the New York Tribune, says that "there are a great many people about here who look confidently for the return of Walker, with a force to surport him, within the next two months. Even those who dislike the man, in many cases wish success to the scheme; and I am told that even now there is a party in Nicaragua, which has Rivas at its head, that is still anxious for Walker's return, they having quarreled among themselves, and with the government of Costa Rica. Some say that Rivas has actually written and requested Walker to come back, promising to return to his support with his whole party. If this be so, it is the expression of the feeling of a party, not an individual; for Patricio Rivas is the mere puppet of his faction. His rank (hereditary) is the only claim which he has upon the people, and it alone secures to him the nominal leadership of the party whose cause he may espouse. The dissensions already existing, and daily increasing, will open anew the fleld to fillibusters; and, should they succeed in landing, they may profit by former experience, and in the end prove more successful than before.'

AFFAIRS IN CURA.-Four more cargoes of negro slaves from Africa have just been landed on the Cuban coast, within half a mile of the country seat of Governor-General Concha. They number 1,783 likely hands, without counting infirm or children worth in the agrregate $1,069,800. From this the reader may calculate the enormous profits arising from the slave trade. All these negroes were obtained on the African coast at very little cost. Two of the vessels which brought these cargoes were destroyed soon after being discharged, but the other two went back to Africa on a fresh venture.

Police Proceedings .- Thursday, September 10 .-Wm. Sheklett, for stoning a house in the lower part of the city and making au attack or officer

Samuel Hamann was fined $500 for keeping a disrderly honse.

Jane O'Bryan, for selling liquor without license ras fined $60.

Henry Alexman was fined $25 for beating Doto thy Hasskany. A despatch from White, Morris, & Co., of New York, to White & Young, of this city, says the Metropolitan Bank had thrown out the notes of the Bank of Orleaus, N. Y., and of the Bank of New Jersey. The New York Courier contradicts the statemen that the Island City Bank had suspended. The bank has a circulation of only $99,000, while its available bills receivable are $385,000.

At the session of the General Council, last night, among other important business transacted was the passage by the Common Council of an ordinance for the improvement of Seventh street from Green to Market, and of Broadway from Second to Fourth street. Both streets are greatly in need of repairs. The Board of Aldermen has not yet acted upon this ordinance.

NEW TOBACCO.-The first hogsherd of tobacco of the new crop was received on Tuesday by the steamer Maria Denning. It is from the plantation of Goran Cox, Esq., Henry county, Tennessee, and consigned to Messrs. R. Yeatman & Co. N. O. Bee. Sept. 4.

We doubt whether the above was new tobacco. Henry county, Tennessee, is adjacent to the Cumberland river.

The debut of Frezzolini at the Academy of Music The debut of Frezzolini at the Academy of Music last evening filled the building—filled it better than her voice did, for with all the raptures about her elegant appearance, her capital acting, and her fine vocalization, there was general disappointment with the quality as well as the quantity of her voice. While the novelty lasts she will draw pretty well, but it will require something more to sustain the opera through a long season.

TAKING THE NUMBER OF THE STARS .- A most magnificent and interesting work is now being is-sued at Paris, a complete map of the beavens, so far as our knowledge goes, prepared under the auspices of the Imperial Observatory. It is to consist of sixty-five plates, each one of which indicates the position of 25,595 stars of the third magnitude, or 1,659,125 in all. The eighteenth plate, now finished, was recently presented to the Academy of Sciences by M. Leverrier, where it excited immense CALIFORNIA RISKS .- A California correspondent of the Fall River Star says, in reference to that State: "This is a great country! A man can live here about as fast as the law allows, and some take the liberty of living considerably faster; for which they are liable to the accident of being hung if they do business in a small way, and the risk of a nomination for Governor or Senator, &c., if they go it on the large. I am rather cautious and shall endeavor to avoid the last chance."

BRANDY FROM THE CHINESE SEGAR CANE .- A correspondent of the New York Post sends to that paper a sample of very good brandy made from the syrup of the above named plant, and says that it costs about thirty cents per gallon to produce and is worth in the market from $1 to $2 per gallon, according to quality. He suggests that the growth of this crop will enable the farmers to manufacture the spirit in the winter season, when they have no other occupation. They can make a gallon of proof spirit for each gallon of fermented syrup, and it will find a ready sale at the rectifiers, who will turn it into alcohol for camphene and other uses. The writer

The quantity of alcohol now used for purposes of illumination alone, to say nothing of varuishes, chloroforu, and medicinal extracts, is enormous, and was beginning to have a serious effect or the price of bread, owing to the wholesale destruction of cereals required to produce it. Now, however, we have found a substitute, which, besides supply-ing syrup and alcohol, will also yield from the same crop a large amount of forage and grain for the fat-

THE LOST CABLE .- A late English paper has the following: "Aug. 21-496 and 450 fathoms of an electric telegraph cable, belonging to the Atlantic Telegraph Company, were picked up on the 8th and 12th of August, in Queenstown harbor."

It was noticed that, in laying the cable, the continuity of the electric current was, by some means at present unknown, temporarily destroyed. Lieutenant Brooke, U. S. N., well known as the inventor of an instrument for deep-sea soundings, offers the following explanation of the phenomenon

The conducting wires broke; the gutta percha, stretching with the outer wires, drew the broken ends apart, and con'inuity was then interrupted. ends apart, and con'inuity was then interrupted. But when that portion of the cable approached the bottom it became slack. "The cable will be deposited in waves upon the bottom." Then the gutta percha, relieved of the strain, by virtue of its clasticity contracting, drew the broken, separated ends of the conducting wires together, and continuity was reestablished. This reestablishment of continuity is a striking proof of the fact that the conducting wires were broken, while the gutta percha remained unharmed. Had it not been reestablished the interruption would have been generally attributed to admission of the gutta percha, and the error of construction would have remained unexposed.

THE GREATEST STEAM INVENTION YET,-The Baten Rouge Gazette, under the above heading, has

Win. St. Martin, of this city, has invented an eugiae which can be constructed, boiler and all, for about $50. The machine is so simple that we might with propriety say it is merely an escape pipe, taking up no more room. The steam is admitted into the ceutre of a drum or cylinder, in which the shaft works; from this power is applied directly without further friction. The other day we saw the perfected model of the engine pumping water about 20 feet and throwing it into a reservoir at the brewery. This is the apparatus wanted for getting in a chean feet and throwing it into a reservoir at the prewery. This is the apparatus wanted for getting in a cheap manner one or two horse power to drive small machinery. Mr. St. Martin has made application for letters patent, and when he gets them we think he has a fair prospect ahead to realize something from the result of his genius.

PARLOR FISH PONDS—A New Mana.—Among the colucated people of Great Britain, within the the cducated people of Great Dritain, within the last four or five years, an almost universal taste has leen awakened for the study of marine plants and animals, a department of knowledge before comparatively unexplored. So fashionable has the stuparatively unexplored. So fashionable has the stu-dy become that one can hardly enter a parlor in the reflued and cultivated seelety of London without seeing an aquarium, or, in other words, a glass case or tank of salt water, containing a collection of living and growing curiosities of the sea, representa-lives of organic and inorganic nature. This pur-suit is of quite a recent date. It is not long since the inquiries of the less scientific students in this department of natural history were satisfied by the dried collections and classification of sea-weeds in their berbariums, or by museums of shells and corestarrains, or oy museums or snens and co-rels. They seemed disposed to rest satisfied with the discovery that the corals were not vegetables, and as fer shells, they manifested but little interest, pre-terring to classify the stony domiciles rather than to investigate the habits of the creatures within them. The labora however of a few enthusiastic them. The labors, however, of a few enthusiastic popular writers like Gosse, Prof. Harvey, Rev. Chas. Williams, Charles Kingsley, and Neal Humphreys have inspired a new interest in this subject. N. Y. Ecc. Poet.

THE LITERARY MEN OF FRANCE.-Call the roll of the "young men of 1830," and ask where they are? De Balzac is dead—coffee killed him. Frederick Soulie is dead, the victim of coffee and licentiousess. Ungene Briffaut died a madman in the Charcottou Lunatic Asylum. Granville went mad, and reathed his last in a private insane house. Lassally died at the Charenton mad house, a raving lunatic. tiousness. Rabbe, after suffering agony from a loathsome disease, took poison to end his prolonged torture. Alfred D. Museet died a victim to the tottel and the cigar. Count Alfred d'Orsav was killed by the cigar and licentiousness. Charles de Bernard died from coffee and licentiousness. Henri Beyle died from coffee and women. Hippolite Reyer Calibert died from tobacco and coffee. Carvid de Collard died from tobacco and coffee. Collard died from tobacco and coffee. Gerard de Nervel, after oscillating between plenty and want, abstemiousness and licentiousness, went mad and hung himself. All died of softening of the brain or spinal marrow, or swelling of the heart! All unowed down in the prime of life—in the meridian of their intellect and fame .- Correspondence Boston Traveller.

New Ciocks at the City Hall.—The eleven clocks which are hereafter to furnish correct time in the City Hall, regulated, through electric apparatus, by a clock in the Mayor's office, were yesterday set upon their niches in the rooms of the various departments. The frame of each clock is about two feet in diameter. The dials are white, with black lettering, and the inscription, "Hall's Patent, Sept. 26, 1854, manufactured by Charles T. and J. N. Chester, New York." There is no machinery behind the face, the movement of the hands being effected by that of the clock in the Mayor's office. These clocks will enter clock in the Mayor's office. These clocks will enter upon the duties of their stations this morning. Those who desire correct time will do well to consult them. Similar clocks will soon be placed in the

It does very well for a woman to blush and look flustered now and theu, when occasion makes it desirable; but to see a nam, when occasion makes it desirable; but to see a mam, with his face as red as a ripe cherry, and a real parcel of strong-mindedness, self-reliance, and masculine dignity, done up in broadcloth and starched linen, quaking from the toe of his boot to the top of his shirt-collar, his mouth awry, and his tongue twisted into convulsions, in the vain attempt to say something sweet. O gracious!"

So said saucy Sophie Lynn aloud to herself, as she sat swinging backwards and forwards before her window, half buried in the cushions of a luxurious arm-chair, and playing with a delicate ivory fan that law noon her law.

'It always seems so strange, not to say tire-some,' she continued, with a running, unsical laugh, "after one has waltzed and sung, quoted poetry and talked nonsense with anybody, till one is puzzled to know which of the two is most heart-less, one's self or one's companion, to hear him come plump down on the subject of matrimony, as that was the legitimate result of every though that was the legitimate result of every such insipid acquaintanceship! For my part I never had a lover (here Sophie fluttered her fan and looked pleased for she had had more than one), that I wasn't heratily sick of after he had proposed. There was Captain Morris—I thought him the handsomest man in the whole size of in my whole circle of acquaintances, until he went on his knees to me, and swore he should die if I didn't take pity on him. Somehow he always lookod like a fright to me afterwards. Then there was Dr. Wilkins—he was really agreeable, and people said very learned. I was delighted with him for a time; but he spoiled it all with that offer of his—what long-winded adjectives!—and how the poor fellow blushed, and puffed, and perspired! He called me an "adorable creature," and hiccoughed in the middle of adorable. Horrors! I've detested the middle of adorable. Horrors! I've detested him ever since. Then there was a ____, Here Sophie started. She head the door-bell ring. With a nervous spring she stood before her mirror, snoothing down her brown hair with a haste truly course. truly comical

'It wou't do to seem interested," she said as she took a finishing survey of her person in the glass, and shook out, with her plump, jeweled fingers, the folds of her airy muslin dress.

The moment afterwards, when a servant entered to announce Mr. Harry Ainslee, she was back on her old seat by the window, rocking and playing with her fan, apparently as unconcerned and listless as though that name had not sent a quicker thrill to her heart, or the betraying crimson all over her pretty face. "Tell him I will be down presently," she

The girl disappeared, and Sophie flung open her window, that the cool, fresh wind might fan away the extra rosiness from her complexion. Then she went again to the mirror, and, after composing her bright, eager, happy face into an expression of de-mureness, descended to the parlor. A smile broke over her features, and she reached out both hands to her guest; but, as if suddenly recollecting herself, drew them back again, and, with a formal how of recognition, she passed him, and seated herself in a further corner of the room.

It was very evident that something was wrong with Sophie; that she had made up her mind either not to be pleased or not to please. Could it be that she had foreseen what was coming? that a presentiment of that visit and its result had dictated the merry speeches in her chamber? Be that as it may, a half-hour had not elapsed before she knew that a half-hour had not elapsed before she knew that Harry Ainslee's hand and fortune (which latter, by the way, was nothing wonderful) were in the same place where Captain Morris's and Dr. Wilkins's had

"The first man that I ever heard say such things without making a fool of himself," muttered Sophie emphatically from behind her fan, as she sat blushing, and evidently gratified, yet without deigning any reply to the gallant, straightforward speech in which her lover had risked his all of hope.

"He ought to do penance for the pretty way he manages his tongue. He's altogether too calin to suit me." And Sophie shock her curly head meansuit me." And Sophie shock her curly head meaningly, holding her fan before her for a screen—did she forget what she had been saying! "I wonder if I could snore the way old Uncle Jones used to in church!" she soliloquised. "Wouldn't it be fan?—and wouldn't it plague Harry if he thought I had been asleep while he was talking?"

Sophie's blue eyes danced with suppressed merriment as she gave two or three heavy breathings, and followed them up with a nasal explosion worthy of an orthodox deacon. It was well done-theatrically done; and poor Harry sprang bolt upright—surprised, mortified, chagrined. Human nature could stand it no longer, and Sophie gave vent to her with in a burst of triumban laughter.

to her mirth in a burst of triumphant laughter.
"Y-o-u little witch—you mischief—you spirit of evil!" exclaimed the relieved Harry, as he sprang to her side and caught her by the arm with a gripa that made her scream. "You deserve a shaking for your behavior!" Then lowering his voice, he added gravely, "Will you never have done tormenting me? If you love me, can you not be generous enough to tell me so? and if you do not, am I not, at lover, worth, of a condid seferal?" at least, worthy of a candid refusal?

Words sprang to Sophie's lips that would have done credit to her womanly nature and made her lover's heart bound with rapture; for the whole depths of her being were stirred, and drawn toward him as they never before had been to any man. But she could not quite give up her raillery then. She would go one step further from him ere she laid her hand in his, and told him he was dearer than all the world beside. So she checked the tender response that trembled on her tongue, and flinging off his grasp with a mocking gesture and a ringing laugh, danced across the room to the piano.

She seated herself, she ran her fingers gracefully over the keys, and broke out in a wild, brilliant, de-fiant song, that made her listener's ears tingle as he stood watching her, and choaking back the indig-nant words that came crowding to his lips for utter-

"Sophie, listen to me!" he said at length, as she paused from sheer exhaustion. 'Is it generous-is it just, to trifle with me so?—to turn into ridicule the emotions of a heart that offers you its most reverent affections? I have loved you, because und this volatile, surface-character of yours I thought saw truthfuluess and simplicity, purity of soul, and a warm current of tender, womanly feeling, that would bathe with blessings the whole life of him whose hand was fortunate enough to touch its secret springs. You are an heiress, and I only a poor student; but if that is the reason why you treat my suit so accurafully, you are less than the noble woman that I thought you."

Sophie's head was averted, and a suspicious moist-ure glistened in her eyes as Harry ceased speaking. Ah! why is it that we sometimes hold our highest happiness so lightly—carrying it carelessly in our hands as though it were but dross, and staking it all upon an idle caprice!

When she turned her countenance towards him

When she turned her countenance towards him again, the same nocking light was in her eyes, the same coquettish smile wreathed her red lips.

"Speaking of heiresses," said Sophie, "there's Helen Myrle, whose father is worth twice as much as mine. Perhaps you had better transfer your attentions to her, Mr. Ainslee. The difference in our dowries would no doubt be quite an inducement, and possibly she might consider your case more seriously than I have done." riously than I have done."

Like an insulted prince, Harry Ainslee stood up before her—the hot, fiery, indignant blood dashing in a fierce torrent over his face—his arms crossed in a fierce torrent over his face—his arms crossed tightly upon his breast, as if to keep his heart from bursting with its uprising indignation—his lips compressed and his dark eyes flashing. Sophie, cruel Sophie! You added one drop too much to vour cup of sarcasm. You trespassed upon his forbearance one little step further than you would have dared had you known his proud, sensitive nature.

Not till he was gone—gone without a single word of expostulation, leaving only a grave "good-by" and the memory of his pale face to plead for himdid the thoughtless girl wake to a realization of what she had done. Then a quick, terrible fear shot through her heart, and she would have given every curl on her brown head to have him beside her one short moment longer.

"Pshaw! what am I afraid of? He will be back again within twenty-four hours, as importunate as ever," she muttered to herself as the street door closed after him; yet a sigh, that was half a sob, followed the words, and could Harry have seen the beautiful pair of eyes that watched him so eagerly beautiful pair of eyes that watched him so eagerly as he went down the long street, or the bright face that leaned away out through the parted blinds, with such a wistful look, after he had disappeared, it might have been his turn to Iriumph.

In spite of Sophie's prophecy, twenty-four hours did not bring back Harry. Days matured into weeks, and still he did not come, nor in all that time did she see him. And now she began to think herself quite a martyr, and to act accordingly! In fact, she did as almost any human would have done under the circumstances—grew pale and interesting. Manma began to suggest delicacies to tempt Sophie's palate—"the poor dear child was getting so thin!" In vain. Sophie protested that she had no appetite.

In vain papa brought dainty gifts and piled up costly dresses before his pet. A faint smile, or an abstracted "thank you," was his only recompense. If sister Kate suggested that Harry's absence was in any manner connected with her altered demeanor, Sophie would toos her ringlety head with an air of surreque judifference and my away and cry over it. supreme indifference, and go away and cry over it, hours at a time. Everylody thought something was the matter with Sophie, Sophie amongst the

was the matter with Sopnie, Sopnie amongst the rest.

Her suspense and penitence became insupportable at last. Sister Kate, who had come so near the true solution of the mystery, should know all—so said Sophie. Perhaps she could advise her what to do, for to give Harry up for ever seemed every day more and more of an impossibility.

"Will you come into the garden with me, Kate?" she asked, in a trembling voice, of her sister one day, about a month after her trouble with Harry.

"Have something of importance to tell you."

"Go away, darling, and I will be with you in a few moments," replied Kake, easting a searching glance at Sophie's flushed cheeks and swollen eyes. Running swiftly along the garden paths as if from fear of pursuit, Sophie turned aside into her tavorite arbor, and flinging herself down on the low seat, buried her head among the cool, green vines, and gave herself up to a paroxysm of pasvines, and gave herself up to a paroxysm of pas-sionate grief. Soon she heard steps approaching, and an arm was twined tenderly about her waist, and a warm hand laid caressingly on her drooped head.

"Oh, Kate, Kate," she cried in the agony of her repentance, "I am perfectly wretched. You don't know why, though you have come very near guessing two or three times. Harry and I —."

guessing two or three times. Harry and 1—
Here a convulsive sob interrupted her, and the hand upon her head passed over her disordered curls with a gentle, soothing motion.

"Harry and 1"—another sob—"quarreled two or three weeks ago. I was willful and rude, just as it is natural for me to be, and he got angry. I don't think her is given to the property of the party is natural for me to be, and he got angry. I don't think he is going to forgive me, for he hasn't been

A kiss dropped on Sophie's glossy head, and tighter was she held. She wondered that Kate was so silent, but still she kept her face hidden in the

have been the one to plead instead of him. I could not bear that, and so I answered him just as I should not. He thought it was because he was poor and I was rich, and all the time I was thinking I would rather live in a cottage with him than in the grandset place that ever was with any other man, only I was too proud to tell him so to his face. What can I do? Tell me, Kate—you are so much better than I am, and never get into trouble. I am sure I shall die if you don't!" And poor Sophie wept anew.

I am, and never get into trouble. I am sure I snaudie if you don't!" And poor Sophie wept anew. "Look up, dear, and I will tell you." Sophie did look np, with a start, and the next moment, with a little scream, leaped from the arms of—not sister Kate, but Harry Ainslee!

Sophie declares to this day, that she has never for-given either of them, though she has been Mrs. Henry Ainsice nearly two years.

theran is to ascertain whether the committing mag-istrate had proper jurisdiction. On the part of the prisoner it is denied that either of the Judges referred to passed upon the question of bail, and I do not see any proof that they did. The question then comes up, is this a proper case for bail? It is the right of society to have an accused person held for trial, and if found guilty for punishment. Society should have all reasonable security for his or her appearance, and that is all society can re-quire.

It is the right of the prisoner that surety should be taken for his personal appearance at the trial. That is the law of the land, and all that society can require. When security can be had for such ap-pearance nothing more can be required.

The Judge took a review of the chances of the prisoner's conviction, of the moral grade of the offence, and of the probability of the effect of a sentence to the State prison on the mind of a woman, a doons upon which she must be supposed to look with

A DANGEROUS EXPERIMENT .- R. H. Horne, the author of Orion, was a man of very strong prejudi-ces. Among others, he cherished one against the Rev. Robert Montgomery, the author of Satan, etc. In a work he edited, he had most ruthlessly attackof the popular preacher, who was, however, somewhat of a charlatan. Although they had never seen each other, they cherished a reciprocal detesta-tion.

A mutual friend, resolving to bring them together, got up a dinner party, to which the poet preacher and his savage assailant were invited. Upon entering the house with Montgomery, he was told by his servant in a low tone that Mr. Horne was in his litthe writing-room. He, therefore, very coolly took the reverend rhymster into the room where Horne was alone, and introduced them to each other under was alone, and introduced them to each other under the assumed names of Jones and Brown. Begging permission to be excused while he dreased for dinner, he left the two belligerents alone. When the door closed, Mr. Horne said: "Sir, as my name is not Jones, perhaps yours is not Brown."

"Certainly not," replied the divine, smiling. "I am the Rev. Robt. Montgomery."

"And I, sir, am Mr. Horne."

They looked at each other, broke into a fit of laughter, shook hands; and when their host came down, he found the Kilkenny cats, instead of having devoured each other up to their tails, laughing at the tailes they had been entertaining each other with.

Dr. King's Dispensary

DR. A. KING, a practitioner of New York for the last thirty years, has opened a Dispensary on Market, between First and Second, nearly opposite the Graham House, Louisville, for like treatment of Private Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Syphilis, and all diseases of the skin and other derangements growing out of neglect or imperfect cure. His long experience and success enable him to act with confidence, All those who may comid their cases to him may rest assured of having the disease effectually cured and every vestige of the difficulties perfectly eradicated from their constitutions.

STRICTURES of old or recent date effectually cured in a few days by an operation which causes no pain. Where a stricture exists, general derangement of the whole constitution must ensue, a continuance of which will bring on a train of symptoms to be dreaded, and will undermine the constitution and cause premature old age.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.—Particular attention will be given to this disease and all the consequences growing out of it, brought on, in many cases, by the destructive habits of inconsiderate youth and excessive indulgence of the passions, which undermine the constitution, rendering the subject unit for either business or society, and causing premature old age.

HAYFS, CRAIG, & CO.

We again refer the attention of our readers to the store of G. B. Tabb, corner of Fourth and Market streets, where can always be found a very attractive stock of dry goods; and we would here say his stock for the ensuing season is larger and has been selected with more care and taste than that of any former season. The articles we most wish to particularize this morning are those he is now daily receiving. Among the handsome variety he has received may be found the following: De Laine and Satiu De Chine Robe de Chambre, in piece and ready-made, a style of dress that may be said all who see will want; Chenille Shawls of the richer colors and cheap; Silk Scarfs tipped with velvet side-trimmed Robes, Valencia Lace Collars, Honiton Sets, Valencia Lace Sets, Imperial Shawls, Stella Shawls, Satin-faced Merinoes (which we are offering at very low prices), rich Bayadere and striped Silks, fringe-flounced Robes, Valencia, Victoria, Praviata, and Cyarina Plaids, plain and Bayadere Poplins, embroidered and trimmed black Velvet Clouks. fall styles, every conceivable brand of Flannels of all widths from 3-4 to 10-1 wide, &c. His stock of Evening Dresses is unusually large, embracing eve rything new and desirable. We take pleasure in recommending this house to those from a distance who are unacquainted with our principal establishments as being one with an enviable reputation. a31 j&b mane, and xentagic Attections, it has in numerous instances, proved highly beneficial, and in others effected a decided cure.

This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared onstrictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Boerhave. Because of its great success in most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was intended more especially for those of our fatherland scattered here and there over the face of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among them. I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous nae of ardent spirits, or other forms of dissipation. Tenerally Instantaneous in its effect, it finds its way directly to the seat of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new health and vigor in the system.

NOTHER—Whoever expects to find this a heverage will be disappointed; but to the sick, weak, and low spirited it will prove a grateful aromatic cordial, possessed of singular remedial properties.

CAUTION. The great popularity of this delightful Aroma has induced many initations, which the public should guard against purchasing. Be not persuaded to buy anything else until you have given Beerhave's Holland Bitters a fair trial. One bottle will convince you how infinitely superior it is to all these initations.

Police Proceedings -Friday, Sept. 11.-Lewis Lorlon, for disturbing his antiquated lorette, the famous Susan Cash, was held to bail in $300 for six months.

Martin Ax had a peace warrant against Conrad Shaeffer. Both were equally to blame in the difficulty and held to bail in $200 for three months. Their own recognizance was taken.

James Buckley was drunk and disorderly. He is a dilapidated tailor, and when intoxicated not even the ninth part of a man. Own recognizance taken. Wm. Higgens is a most miserable and forlorn drunkard and vagrant. Sent to the workhouse for three months.

Jacob Carboe does nothing but frequent places of bad repute. Held in $200 to answer the charge of vagrancy.

Alrich Tensel has been abusive of his family. Gave bail in $200 for two months.

Margaret Tyler and Jane Wilson were found be tween 3 and 4 o'clock this morning on Market street with a bucket of lager beer. They are desperately hard cases and were sent to the workhouse for three months.

NEW STEAMER FLORILDA.-This is the name given to Capt. Baldwiu's new Missouri river packet, which, in going over the falls on Wednesday evening, got aground. We are glad to be able to announce that, by the well-directed efforts of Captain Dryden, who was piloting her, and Capt. Baldwin, she was got off this morning without sustaining the least injury. In justice to Capt. Dryden, it is proper to state that she was driven on a reef by a sud-

The hull of the Florilda, which was built by Mr. Nagle, oue of our most successful boat-builders, has a fine model, in point of strength is unequaled, and has the following dimensious:

Length 210 feet, breadth of beam 33 feet, floor 30 feet, and depth of hold 5½ feet. The planks forward are 4¾ inches and aft the boilers 4½ inches thick, fastened with 23 binding streaks; the keelson is 7 inches by 14, the knuckle keelson 6 by 10 inches; the binding streak 3 by 7 inches, and the clamps 2½ by 20 inches, with over 13,000 bolts

The machinery is from the celebrated foundery of Glover & Co., and consists of two engines (finely fiuished), having 61/4 feet stroke and 23-inch cylinders, two boilers each having 5 flues, 26 feet long and 46 inches in diameter; also a doctor to supply the boiler with water and work two pumps, and in addition has steampipes to which hose can be attached for the purpose of conveying steam to any part of the boat in case of fire.

The cabin, which has 40 large and airy staterooms and ull minor conveniences, was built by Downs, Mitchell, & Co. The upholstery for it was made at the well-known establishment of John A. Dickinson and the furniture by John Simm.

Mr. Porter has done himself credit in the painting of the Florilda. The hull was caulked by Wm. Gustenhouse, an experienced hand in that busi-

The Florilda is owned by Mesers. Gaty & Baldwin, of St. Louis, and was built under the superintendence of Captain John H. Baldwin, according to the new regulations of the St. Louis board of unlerwriters. Those who know Capt. B. will not for one moment doubt that she is suited in all respects to the trade. Mr. Short is the clerk, who during his sojourn here has made hosts of friends.

The correspondent of the Tribune, in announcing the awards made by the U. S. Agricultural Acsociation in this city, adds:

It is well to remark, in connection with the above announcement of the reaper and mower prizes, that the judges were compelled to award preminms for the work actually accomplished at Syracase, and it is undoubtedly the fact that the machines doing both the best and poorest work, if put on a farm to cut down a series of crope, would perform nuch more creditably than they did in the hands of their over-excited exhibitors. McCormick's machine did over-excited exhibitors. McCormick's machine did the best reaping there by far, but this may not be conclusive evidence of its superiority; and the Kentucky Harvester, which is a good reaper, was driven so unnecessarily fast that its work was vety bad.— It should be remembered by future competitors that "haste makes waste," and they should operate their machines on a trial as they would on a farm.

The Secretary of War received to-day a fine photograph likeness of Baron Humboldt, a present from the distinguished traveler himself, with the following endorsement in his own handwriting: "A l'Honorable John B. A dozen elegant colored lithographs were also presented to Governor Floyd by Baldnin Hollhausen, lately appointed designer and lithographer to the Colorado river expedition. Mollhausen is the protigie of Humboldt and married his ward.

A Mr. H. II. It is quite apparent that Mr. Timberlake supposed when he started out in this cause that the public would naturally think it was a laudable desire on his part to guard it against the company he attacks, but when we look at the fact that Mr. T. is agent for an insurance company, whose funds at the agency in this city are or have been under attachment—a company, too, that never did and probably never will have the best reputation in the world—it is evident that Mr. Timberlake is only doing his utmost to vent his malice. We rely too much on public confidence to suppose that it will take any notice of his communication after learning the source.

A Match for Death.—While the brig Governor Anderson was lving in Tampa Bay, Florida, lately, her commander, Captain Simpkins, took the yellow fever. He was down with it on a Monday. On the Tuesday following he was attacked with Asiatic cholera. The next day, Wednesday, he was dangerously ill with the small pox, and on Thursday he transacted business in Tampa city, and prepared his vessel for sea. The Peninsular styles this "a case for the faculty," somewhat equivocally; meaning, we presume, not that the faculty might achieve what disease failed to do, in disposing of Captain Simpkins, but that they may be able to find ont the secret of his recovery from three such mortal foes as the yellow fever, Asiatic cholera, and small-pox in three days. three days.

ACCOMPLISHMENT OF THE GREAT PEDESTRIAN FEAT.—At 15 minutes past 2 o'clock this (Tuesday) norning, James Lambert, the English "pedestrian, completed the unnatural feet of walking I,000 miles completed the unnatural feet of walking I,000 mules in I,000 consecutive honrs for a wager, at Stewart's Gymnasium in this city. The feat was begun on Tuesday, July 28, at 10 A. M., and since that time Mr. Lambert has not failed to walk one mile in every honr that has elapsed. At first it was an easy matter, and he was in the habit of walking two miles consecutively, beginning at the latter part of one hour and walking for a part of the next, thus obtaining an intermission of alout an hour and a half. But after awhile, tired nature began to require rest, and he was fain to yield to her demands at the end of each mile. As he went on, he became more and more tired, his muscles began to swell and give him pain, he slept very soundly in the intervals of his task, and the belief became prevalent that he could not endure to the end. It was necessary to use a great drum and other very loud noises to awaken him, and his walk was more like the insensible action of a machine than the inspired movements of a human being. During the last few honra he required some assistance in turning the corners of his path and whereas a first he would accome ments of a human being. During the last few honra he required some assistance in turning the corners of his path, and whereas at first he would accomplish a mile in 12 or 15 minutes, it now took him half un hour or more. The hall was filled with people last night, anxious to witness the conclusion of the task. A brass band was in attendance, to cheer the spirits of the pedestrian, and to enliven the spectature.

At two o'clock this morning, Lambert was called, and began his last mile in such g'od spirits that two men who followed, to fan or support him if necessary, were obliged to run to keep pace with him. The excitement of the spectators was intense, but he kept on without flagging, until, at the expiration of fourteen minutes and ten seconds, the time keeper announced that the mile was finished and the task fourteen minntes and ten seconds, the time keeper announced that the mile was finished and the task completed. To show that he had some strength still remaining, Lambert ran round the conree, 196 feet, two or three times, amid the cheers of the spectators and the music of the band, which now played Yankee Doodle and other inspiring airs. Soveral ladies, of either color, who had been interested witnesses of the scene, waved their handkerchiefs in sympathetic unison with the applause of the gentlemen. Mr. l'. Stewart mounted a chair and announced that "James Lambert, having completed the task of walking one thousand miles in one thousand hours, is the winner of one thousand dollars." Lambert also ascended a ladder, and said that he had promised at the outset never to leave the hall natil he had accomplished the teat, and also thanked the crowd for their sympathy. He then retired to his ante-room, where he will be allowed to sleep until about noon to-day, when he will be aroused and conveyed to his lodgings. Great care must be exercised to prevent his getting too much sleep, which would be as injurions as stuffing a famished man with food. There would be danger, if he were numolested, that he would never awake.

Mr. Lambert has now proved that a man of iron constitution cau walk one thousand miles in one thousand hours, but his experience has shown that the experiment is a most dange rous and almost suicidal one, and, for the sake of humanity and civilization, we hope it will never be attempted again.

Futal Accident on the Hudson River Radroad-Two Fatal Accident on the Hudson River Radroad—Two Females Killed.—The express train, on the Hudson River Radroad, while passing between Hustings and Dobb's Ferry, on toward Albany, Monday evening, ran over two females and killed them. They were discovered by the engineer as he passed over the curve; but before he could stop the train they were struck by the engine. They proved to be the wife and daughter of Mr. Thos. Smith, postmaster of Hastings. The daughter was killed instantly; Mrs. Smith lived six hours. The coroner's jury exonerated the engineer.—N. Y. Times.

A QUESTION OF LONGITUDE—In the Matter of the McLoskey Estate.—A curions question of fact has arisen in this case, upon one branch whereof the Surrogate has already rendered a decision. The testator, who died in Paris, left a legacy of $6,000 to his niece, living in Dubuque, Iowa. It turns out that loth uncle and niece, testator, and legatee, died on the same day. If she died first the legacy ceases; if he died first it goes to her heirs. It looks now as if the question of priority of death must be decided by the question of priority of death must be decided by longitude.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

Messus. Editors: In what I promised you another article on the mineral resources of this great mineral region. I have since visited the celebrated Iron Mountain, and will now proceed to give your readers some account of the IRON MOUNTAINS OF MISSOURI I say mountains lastead of mountain, for such is really the case. Persons not well acquainted with the country or the geography of it generally suppose that there is but one, which they find on the map. They see the Pilot Knob also on the map, just south of the Iron Mountain, but are not aware that this is also a great mountain of iron ore, as it really is. There are at least Are of these iron mountains, of which I will give some description here, beginning with the

but are not aware that this is also a great mountain of from ore, as it really is. There are at least Are of these iron mountains, of which I will give some description here, beginning with the LON NOTNAIN.

This is situated in the southwestern part of St. Francols county. It is about 1½ miles long by ¾ wide, unaking it about 4 miles in circumference at the base, while it is 200 feet high above the valleys on each side at the greatest sumit. It is not covered with stunted shruhlery, as generally supposed, but with trees, as large and thickly shanding as on the other hills or mountains around, there being plenty of soil between the loose pleces and masses of one support them in the mass or collection of iron ore, of the great quality known anywhere in the world. The surface is almost everywhere covered with it, in small loose pleces, of a convenient size for handling, lying almost "as thick as they can stick," like the loose stones on a rocky hill, while the interior consists of it in humane masser, rendering blasting necessary. Specimens are frequently to be met with amost as pure as the metal itself, and the richest specimens of it will yield 80 to 55 per cent. of pure from An idea of fit richness may be formed when Jaar that a receive county, where the ore is need in manufacturing bloome, they can be made directly prom it, without having first to be smelted in a large furnace and run into the pig Iron, as usual with iron ore. This I winteresd myself, And I have heard of pleces of this ore having been drawn out into the malleable from in a common smith's force! But this is rare. It is so rich however that it yields 56 per cent, on an average in the furnaces at the mountain, where it is smelted, and requires only about 70 journels of limestone to smooth of the promoned of the promoned of the surface of the long of the promoned of the mountain the contract of the head of the promoned of the surface in the interior of the head unit. The head of the promoned of the surface in the interior of the head of the normal

This is another areat mountain mass of iron ore, lying west of the Pilot Knob, and just across "Shepherd's Vailey" from it. It is of an oblong shape, east and west, about four miles in circomference at the hase, and rises 636 feet above the level of the valley, from which it gradually ascends. The ore lies mostly helow the surface, and is equally as pure and rich as that of the preceding places. There is no turnace attached to this mountain; but a good deal of the ore has been mined and used at the Pilot Kuob turnaces.

To the southwest of the Knob, at about 6 miles distance, lies

RUSSELL'S MOUNTAIN. which is another great mountain mass of iron ore equally as good, but which I did not have time to visit; while to the northeast, at about the same distance from the Pilot Knob, of this iron ore, the name of which I could not learn, if, indeed, it has any, and which, also, I had not time to visit. There are no furtuses at either of these.

Here, then, in the same region of country, are five great iron mountains, composed of this rich one, of unknown depths; while, as I have been informed, westward of it there are numerous places, of less note, where this ore exists in large quantities. In fact, the whole of southern and south-western Missouri is a vast region of iron ore. Lumps of iron ore, frequently very rich, and trace of it are to be met with almost everywhere in the roads, ravines, branches, and crocks. We may say, with correctness, that there is iron ore enough, in these mountains alone, to last the whole world during all future time, for every purpose tor which iron is used! And, with these inunense, nexities, and advantages for suching it and reducing it to the maillea. bie beds of iron ore, and with all the means, facilities, and advantages for smelting it and reducing it to the unallest bleetate, why, we ask, are we so dependent on Europe for railroad iron? Whenever a railroad is to be built, some one has to be sent there to procure the iron for it; and thus unillions of dollars are aurually sent out of the country! The writer saw in some paper (the New York Times, I believe), that the New York Central Railroad Company had ascertained that they could manufacture their own railroad iron, or have it manufactured, at a cost of nearly one-half of what they could procure it from England for! Does not this show that it is not only practicable to have it made at home, but cheaper, and that by almost half?

Ingland for! Does not this show that it is not only practicable to have it made at home, but cheaper, and that by almost half?

All that is wanting is, for a few men of enterprise and enficient capital to engage in the business and give it a start; and there is plenty of unemployed capital that could be profitably inverted in it.

The greatest difficulty to be contended with, in making the iron ore of Southern Missouri into the metal, and reducing that to a malleable state, is that of the scarcity of fuel. In consequence of the rocky character of the country, it is generally but sparsely timbered—not sufficiently for this purpose. The completion of the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Rathead, which will terninate at the Pilot Knoh, will greatly increase the facilities for getting the metal and ore to market, as well as those for procuring the necessary fuel.

This road is now in a great state of forwardness in the neighborhood of the Mountain and Pilot Knob, the grading being nearly finished, and the timbers nearly all ready to be laid down for the iron. If in the same state of completion along all the line to St. Louis, it will not be long before they can have care running all the way. The only means of transit for the metal and ore now is the slow and expendie one by wagons, along the plank road to St. Genevieve, on the Missispin river, a distance of 33 miles from the Mountain and 46 from the Pilot Knob. When this railroad, however, is finished, the metal and ore will find its transit along it to St. Louis. These facilities must then have the effect of increasing the number of firmances and as the ore is of such pure and rich quality as to bear the expense of transportation very well, and exists in in-xhansible quantities, immeuse quantities of that also will find its way to market along this railroad, to be used in manufusaturing it, as there is no stone-coal, as I am aware, in all Southern Missoni. All the prophetic language of an intelligent, acunt, and implemental free tone-coal can be used in manufusaturing

A Sad Affair.—A noted house of ill-repute, on Market street, was searched on Saturday by the police, and from it was taken Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, the wife of Mr. Robert Taylor, doing business on Seventh street, below Chestnut, by a warrant granted by Ald. Eneu, upon complaint of the husband. Mrs. T. is a person of prepossessing appearance and by no means inelegant manners. She was taken from the above place at about six o'clock in the morning, and committed to prison in default of bail. She was subsequently released. On Sunday evening the unhappy woman went on board the ferry-boat Mary, plying to Camden, and, when midway scross the river, plunged overboard. With great difficulty she was rescued, and taken in charge by some persons residing across the river.

Loss and Recovery of "Etah."—On Wednesday afternoon, about 6 o'clock, while a young man having charge of the Esquimaux dog "Etah," famed for its connection with the Arctic exploring expedition, was standing in the entrance of the Melodeon, he suddenly missed the animal. The whole neighborhood was searched in vain, for several hours. About 11 o'clock that night the dog was brought back by a policeman, who had found him up Washington street, above the railroad bridge, where two men were endeavoring to get the dog into a carriage, by coaxing, but he was too bright for them, and persisted in declining. The dog could not have ranged the streets in the meantime, and no doubt he was locked up somewhere by the same covetous persons who were trying to kidnap him. He will not be suffered to run loose hereafter.—Boston Traveller.

A Poisoning Case.—Not to be out of Fashion, Charleston has its poisoning mystery. A man, who works in the Navy Yard, and his wife are both reported to have been taken sick a fortnight since, with all the symptoms of having been poisoned. They recovered after several days' sickness, and the husband said that his wife became affronted at him for some little imaginary wrong, and put the poison in his food. One day the past week the wife again took a dose of poison, and was only saved from death by the prompt exertions of a physician. What the motives of the woman are, we are unable to ascertain, although it is said that her friends think she is insane, judging from the manner in which she has behaved while visiting them.—Boston Traveller.
